WATER RESOURCES MANAGEMENT DIRECTORATE

Romania has a long history and tradition in cooperating with its neighboring countries in the field of transboundary water resources, and is committed to a full and effective implementation of the Convention, that entering into in force in 1995, and approval the amendments of the art. 25 and 26 that show the open Convention, from 2006.

In this regards, bilateral Agreements are signed with neighboring countries on transboundary water cooperation: Ukraine (1997), Hungary (2003), Republic of Bulgaria (2004), and Republic of Moldova (2010) and is in process of negotiation of a new agreement with Republic of Serbia.

Under umbrella of the Convention, through of water diplomacy, in daily duty, remain the challenges of the harmonization technical regulations in specific issues (monitoring and assessments of waters, exchange of data information, floods protection) on round table, between EU and non-EU countries, taking into account that in Romania, Convention entering into in force in 1995, and the Ukraine acceded at the Convention in 1999.

During of negotiation\harmonization of the technical regulations in bilateral RO-UA Agreement, Ismail, 2013

Our expectations for the future on the global opening of the Convention, is to enhance the cooperation between countries and regions around the world. In this respect we will be ready to share our experience in management of the transboundary watercourses and international lakes gained both at the level of Danube River Basin and Black Sea as well as within the EU Water Initiative in Eastern Europe, Caucasus and Central Asia countries and also, within the "Platform for Environment and Water Cooperation" .
