

Non-physical address

Annex by ECE/CTCS/WP.7/GE.1/2022/16 Examples in PowerPoint of Addresses.

In this Annex:

- The examples are fine quality products;
- Among these examples there has been no need to trace back a product;
- These examples are P.O. Box address or non-unique address (often an indication of an area (f.e. business park));
- In some of these examples the P.O. Box address looks like a physical address to inspectors;
- In these examples there is no doubt the packer and/or the dispatcher can be identified by the authorities of origin (presumably by the P.O. box address).
- All examples gave a lot of discussion and took a lot of scrutinize time to check.

Costa Rica – Pineapples:

- Piso 7 (Floor 7), Edificio Terrazas B, Plaza Roble, Escazú, San Jose, Costa Rica;
“Produced and packed by” The address mentioned seems to be an office and not production location or packing location. Physical address of dispatch? (or mailbox company?)

Conclusions:

- It is up to country of origin (country of export) to make sure the packer and/or the dispatcher can be identified by its address.
- Products are fine, rejection of thousands of colli products by importing countries simply on a P.O. Box address (often the address used by authorities in the country of origin for registration purposes) makes packers and/or dispatchers victims of the standard (the requirement of a physical address) set. (Especially when there is no unique physical address supplied by authorities to these companies).

Reduce losses and waste starts here by not rejecting on P.O. Box at import.
