B. Substantive segment

Item 9. International Policy Dialogue

23. The 2024 Regional Forum for Sustainable Development for the UNECE Region has documented that the ECE region, like the world at large, is not on track to achieve the SDGs by 2030. The international policy dialogue will be held in two parts. The first part will focus on new initiatives within the Committee's mandate that can help accelerate progress. The second part will focus in particular on one SDG, SDG 12 on Sustainable Consumption and Production, where there has not only been a lack of progress, but a backsliding that has increased the gap to be covered in order to reach the goal by 2030.

(a) Accelerating progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals: the role of innovation and public-private partnerships;

24. The 2024 ECE SDG progress report¹ found that the ECE region is on track to achieve only 20 of the SDG targets by 2030, down from 21 and 26 in 2023 and 2022, respectively, with 80 requiring acceleration, and 17 requiring a reversal of trend.

25. The Regional Forum on Sustainable Development for the UNECE Region called on member States to increase momentum for the SDGs and to take strong messages forward to the High-level Political Forum in July and the Summit of the Future in September 2024 to underscore the ECE region's role as a global champion of sustainable development.

26. The Regional Forum emphasized in particular the importance of science, innovation and technology and of sustainable finance, including PPPs, in advancing key transitions and cooperation towards achieving the SDGs in the region.

27. In the international policy dialogue member States and leading international experts will discuss opportunities for the Committee to use its expertise, programs and tools to support member States in overcoming existing obstacles and bottlenecks and accelerating progress towards the SDGs.

28. The policy dialogue will provide an opportunity to reflect on why policy efforts in the areas of innovation and PPPs have not fulfilled earlier promises of driving progress towards the SDGs, and what this implies for future policy efforts, in general and with respect to specific SDGs, such as SDG 16 on Climate Action. The policy dialogue will also provide an opportunity to discuss the prospects of new technological developments such as artificial intelligence to drive progress, and the attendant policy challenges.

(b) Accelerating the Circular Economy transition in the Economic Commission for Europe region

30. One SDG where there has been backsliding globally and in the ECE region is SDG 12 on Sustainable Consumption and Production. According to the 2024 Global Circularity Gap Report,² the world consumed almost as many materials in the past six years as in the whole 20th century, while circularity, i.e. the share of secondary materials in total materials used, has declined steadily from 9.1 percent in 2018 to 7.2 percent in 2023.

31. The bulk of the overshoot of planetary boundaries on climate gases, nitrogen, fresh water use and land use change occurs in higher income and middle income countries, many of them member States of ECE.

32. Following the decision of the 69th session of the Economic Commission for Europe, ECE has been working on accelerating the transition to a more circular economy in the region. It has created Circular STEP, a stakeholder engagement platform to fill gaps and create synergies among the many practical and value-creating initiatives in the sphere of the circular economy. The platform focuses on the following eight areas: Trade, Innovation-Enhancing Procurement, Waste Management, Small and Medium Enterprises, Traceability of Value Chains, Financing, Digital Solutions, Institutional Arrangements.

33. In the second part of the Committee's international policy dialogue, member States and leading international experts will take stock of the work on the circular economy transition that has been done in the areas of the Committee's mandate as part of the Circular STEP project, i.e. in particular innovation-enhancing procurement and PPPs in waste-to-energy,³ and will discuss existing obstacles and possible policies to overcome them in order to reverse the negative trend on circularity.⁴
